HOLMES' HUMAN BUTCHERIES

Police Closing the Net Still Tighter Around Pat Quinlan, the Accomplice.

Two Vaults Filled With Quick Lime Discovered in the Castle—Another Victim.

Cincinnati, July 29.—Chief Dietch received a telegram from Detective Geyer to search the Poplar street house formerly occupied by H. H. Holmes in this city. Holmes had his mysterious trunks at this house but took them with him. He gave away the large store he had used in the house. Howard Pietzel, as well as his sisters, were here with Holmes, and Geyer wanted to be satisfied as to whether Howard had been disposed of here. Detectives and workmen took charge of the basement and the yard and everything was searched, but nothing was found to indicate murder there. Holmes was closely watched here by Geyer and local detectives. It is the opinion of the latter that Howard was taken to Indianapolis.

Chicago, July 29.—Two brick vaults, three by six feet in size and filled with quicklime, were found in the Holmes building about three feet below the basement floor this afternoon. The police also found another bunch of long discolored human hair. William Capps, the Fort Worth attorney, who is here in behalf of the Williams sisters, advanced a rather startling theory to-day, which, if found to be true, will add another victim to the long list of murders already credited to Holmes. According Mr. Capps, Minnie R. Williams had a brother named Horace A. Williams, in Denver, Colorado. This young man either died or was killed suddenly in May or June, 1893, shortly before the supposed murder of the Williams sisters. The manner of his death is not known to the attorney, but he says that he has ascertained that the young man was insured for $2500 in favor of his sister Minnie. This fact Mr. Capps considers to be decidedly peculiar, as he says that it is not reasonable to suppose that Horace Williams would insure his life in favor of a sister who was very wealthy. He says that his investigations upon this point are not completed, but from what he had learned he was of the opinion that Holmes had first insured the young man and then been instrumental in causing his death.

Chicago, July 29.—Developments in the investigation into the criminal deeds of H. H. Holmes in Chicago close the net still tighter around Pat Quinlan and prove that he was the accomplice of Holmes and fully cognizant of his deeds. The name of Milford C. Cole, formerly of Baltimore, was also added to the list of Holmes' possible victims, as was that of a woman who for a short time was a resident of the "Castle." The date of the disappearance of Mrs. Julia Connor is fixed on Christmas day, 1891. This information was secured from Mrs. John N. Crowe, who occupied rooms in Holmes' "Castle" from early in 1891 to September, 1892, and whose name in connection with the case has never therefore been mentioned. Last night an officer arrested a man in Englewood who is believed to be H. S. Mack, who worked for Holmes during the last six months he lived in the 63rd street house. Mack's identification with the druggist's operations was furnished by Railroad Detective Young, who used to live in the "Castle." The police have been looking for him since Friday and admit he is the most important witness yet rounded up. Whether he can tell anything about Holmes personally is not certain, but that he knows all about Pat Quinlan and his wife, and their connection with Holmes, they feel sure, as certain admissions have been made to friends. Chief Badenoch says he does not believe the Philadelphia authorities will ever surrender Holmes, and therefore he is determined that justice shall be meted out to his accomplices here. The police are satisfied that the skeleton which is now safe in the vault is all that remains of Alice Williams, the sister of Minnie. They have no means of proving this, because the teeth have been destroyed and the jaw bones broken, nevertheless they are quite satisfied that the conclusion is correct. Yesterday's revelations also convinced the police that the house at 63rd street was the scene of all Holmes' murders and that the mysterious "office" on the third floor was employed exclusively for the butchery of his victims.

Chicago, July 29.—The search for the bones of the many supposed victims of H. H. Holmes was resumed at his "castle" early to-day. The rapping of walls and soundings of ceilings in search for secret chambers was continued under the personal supervision of Inspector Fitzpatrick, and not an inch of wall or flooring was missed. Dr. Rustler for several months had offices in Holmes' building, and he and Holmes were often seen together, apparently being intimate friends. He had but few acquaintances, and although his disappearance caused some talk among the neighbors little attention was paid to it. The recent startling discoveries in the castle have recalled the affair and it is considered probable by some that the physician was among Holmes' victims.

NEW YORK NEWS.

Strike Among the Tailors—The Stock Market.

New York, July 29.—The long expected strike of the Brotherhood of Tailors is on today in earnest. More than 10,000 persons engaged in making coats of all kinds are out in obedience to the order given by the general executive board. The strike, as claimed by the workers, is caused by eighty contractors locking out nearly 1,000 workmen, also by the failure of the contractors to live up to agreements made with the brotherhood last fall when a strike against the task system was brought to a successful end by the unions. Of the 10,000 men and women, 8,000 are in this city, 600 in Brooklyn and Brownville, 1,200 in Newark, where the strike was ordered this morning, and 900 Lithuanian tailors east of New York.

The stock market opened strong with the granger roads displaying great strength.

THE AURANIA DISABLED.

The Machinery of the Big Liner out of Order.

New York, July 29.—The British steamer Manitoba arrived today from London and reports on July 26, lat. 44.0, long. 55.57, the Cunard steamer Aurania was sighted. The Aurania displayed three red lights, indicating that her machinery was disabled. She signalled all on board well. The Aurania sailed from Liverpool on Saturday, July 20, stopping at Queenstown as customary for mails, and left the latter port on Sunday, July 21, and was due at New York yesterday. Assistance was offered by the Manitoba, but declined. It is not thought that the damage to the Aurania's machinery is of a very serious character.

Montreal, July 29.—Andrew Boyd, of the defunct firm of Boyd, Gillies & Co., wholesale stationers, will not be brought back from Canada to England as stated in the dispatches of some days ago. It is safe to say Boyd will never again set foot in this country. It will be remembered that during the last days of the late session of parliament Boyd's customs frauds, when he was head of the firm of Boyd, Ryrie & Campbell, were warmly discussed, the contention being that he had been allowed to escape his just deserts for forgery and swindling through the apathy of the controller of customs and the minister of justice. It now transpires that shortly after a recent fire in Boyd, Gillies & Co.'s warehouse Boyd confessed to the insurance people and Crown Prosecutor Quinn that he was in the hands of a desperate gang of firebugs. He gave information which led to the arrest of Haynes and Jenkins on the charge of incendiarism and which implicates several well known firms in the city. For doing so he received a promise that he would not be prosecuted, and immediately left the country on the steamship Mariposa. A third man, named Clarke, has been under lock and key for a week as a material witness. Sensational arrests are expected shortly.

Winnipeg, July 29.—Calder, a C. P. R. employment agent, left yesterday for Toronto for the purpose of engaging a large number of men to work on the railway in this country. The "Soo" line is to be lifted and ballasted the entire distance between Pasqua and Boundary, and gangs of men are to be put on the main line between Fort William and Medicine Hat to put the track in first class condition for the expected heavy traffic of the fall and winter. This work will require a large number of laborers, and after trying for three weeks to secure men here the company reluctantly sent their agent to Ontario to secure them.

Mount Forest, Ont., July 29.—Thomas Heelan, of the township of Arthur, committed suicide last night by hanging. He was a well-to-do farmer and no cause is assigned for the rash act.

Hamilton, July 29.—Miss Emma Foster, 30, fell from a street car last night. She was insensible when picked up and died in an hour.

Belleville, July 29.—Mrs. Lyman Ashley, the oldest resident of this city, died here yesterday. She was born in Belleville on February 25, 1801, and was a granddaughter of Captain Walden Meyer, the pioneer settler of Belleville.

After a partial hearing the matter was postponed until after vacation.

Mackenzie v. Russel & McDonald, Potts (A. L. Belyea), for the defendant Russell, applied for security for costs. Jay contra; motions dismissed.

The trial of Wilson vs. Tomlin and Sinclair is to-day going on before Mr. Justice Walkem in the supreme court. The plaintiffs, John Wilson & Co., of Victoria, sue for $321.74, being broker's commission and purchase money of 215 sacks of potatoes bought by plaintiffs for the defendants, a New Westminster firm. The defendants allege that the potatoes, if ordered at all, were only to be paid for by them after inspection and delivery on the wharf at Westminster. They further say that they were not well sorted and were small and of an inferior quality. Mr. E. V. Bodwell for plaintiffs and Mr. Lindley Crease for defendants.

TO STEAL THE NIAGARA RIVER.

How the American Papers View the Canadian Scheme.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 29.—Certain newspapers in the states are exercised over what they term a scheme to "steal the Niagara river," by which reference is made to the project of one of the Canadian companies organized for the purpose of utilizing Niagara water power, namely, the Welland Power and Supply Company, which was incorporated at the last session of the Canadian parliament and whose aim is not only the utilization of power, but also to supply the water to irrigate the peninsular fruit belt. "The charter of the company," the Philadelphia Record observes, "permits it to draw unlimited water from Niagara river. The company is also empowered to deepen or widen Chippewa creek from its mouth to a point at the intersection of the proposed canal, four and a half miles west, and there is nothing in the charter to prevent the company from diverting the course of the Niagara river to Thorold."

The Courier says: "The company proposes to take the water through a widened and deepened channel in the mouth of the Welland river at a distance of four and one half miles from the Niagara river. The water is to be taken through a surface canal 100 feet wide at the bottom, 150 feet wide at the top, 15 feet deep and will be carried by one level open cut through clay to an escarpment near the town of Thorold, a distance of about six and a half miles, to the brow of a mountain, with a drop of ten feet from the level of lake Erie, giving an available fall of 320 feet to the level of lake Ontario. The proposed first turbine is 150 feet below, then to carry the water by a series of falls, each generating power to open the canal, emptying into lake Ontario six and a half miles away.

Death of Earl Verulam—Ontario's Privy Council Case.

London, July 29.—A report shows that the sum of 663,000 marks was collected for the relief of the Elbe survivors and for the assistance of those who suffered the most by the loss of relatives, friends, etc., through the sinking of that vessel.

In Krickwels, Silesia, a septuagenarian weaver named Jungnitsen was recently murdered during his sleep by his insane daughter. The murderess afterwards cut her father's body up into small pieces and made his flesh her food for several days until the deed was discovered by the natives.

The increase in exports of all German ports to the United States for the past year amounts in round figures to 15,000,000 marks. There has been a decrease in the exports of sugar amounting to 5,000,000 marks. Hamburg, Stettin and Brunswick were the cities affected by the great increase.

An exposition of California products, especially preserves and wine, was opened in Berlin on Monday. A Hamburg firm is going to open four hundred branch stores in Europe for the sale of these products of the Pacific coast.

The Ontario prohibition case will be heard before the privy council on Thursday next. Sir Oliver Mowat is here in connection with the case, to which much interest is attached. The case did not go on yesterday as expected.

The Earl of Verulam is dead. James Walter Crimson, second Earl of Verulam, was born in 1809. He had been lord lieutenant of Herts, high steward of St. Albans, and lord-in-waiting to the Queen. He was a member of parliament for St. Albans and other districts from 1830 to 1835.

The Bulgarian embroglio is still occupying much space in the German newspapers, but more attention is now given to the war commemorations which are fairly under way. On August 6th the bloody engagement on Spicheren Heights will be celebrated by the 12th Grenadier regiment at Frankfort-on-Oder. The battle of St. Private, on August 18th, will be celebrated in grand style, but the most memorable celebration will take place on the Tempelhof field on August 19th, when the battle of Gravelotte will be commemorated. The emperor will be present on the occasion and 40,000 veterans and others will take part in the ceremonies. All other battles and engagements of the month of August, 1870, will likewise be commemorated in the various garrison towns and cities up to Sedan day, September 1st.

Judge DeLorimier decided against the youth, and advised him to await his majority.

THIRSTY NEW YORK.

Strong Efforts Made by the Police to Enforce the Law.

New York, July 29.—The World today says: This great metropolis more nearly resembled the Sahara yesterday than ever before in its history. The police department made a prodigious effort to enforce the excise law. Never before were so many policemen out of uniform employed to watch the side doors of the saloons. An attempt was made to interfere with clubs, but into only one did a policeman gain an entrance. Special Officer Fraser reached the buffet and ordered a cocktail. When it was found that he was not a member he was not served. To the honest, respectable man who goes to the saloon occasionally to drink his beer; to the man who spends a large part of his time in those places, and who calls the keeper by his first name, places were open. For the man who had plenty of money and who is not compelled to consider pennies and dollars, there was all the drink he could swallow. Saloon keepers sold to every man they knew personally. Hard working men, who feel beer a necessity, but who have not the honor of the saloon keeper's acquaintance, were turned away.

A CURIOUS EPIDEMIC.

Its Spread Connected with the Distribution of One Dairy's Milk.

The very interesting investigation made a few years ago in the neighborhood of London, by Drs. Klein and Power, concerning the transmission of diphtheria and scarlet fever through the agency of the milk supply, is recalled by the recent report of Dr. Kenwood, published in London, relating to a curious epidemic of throat disease at Finchley. In a certain locality the inmates of a large group of houses of all classes and varying sanitary condition, were attacked, and careful examination disclosed the fact that all these houses obtained milk from the same source. The original epidemic was not one of diphtheria, although this disease appeared after. As soon as there was ground for the belief that the milk supply was the agent of infection, all persons in the affected houses were warned that they should boil the milk, and the epidemic was stayed only 24 hours after this warning had been given.

It was then ascertained that none of the persons employed at the dairy from which the milk had come was ill with diphtheria or any other throat disease, but the udders of three of the cows were found to be diseased. The epidemic of throat disease was followed by one of true diphtheria, the same houses being invaded, and nearly all of the original patients being attacked by the more dangerous malady. It is believed that the first disease opened the way for diphtheria, by inflaming and weakening the throats of the patients, so that they became incapable of resisting the diphtheria bacillus. It was not ascertained from what source the diphtheria germs came, but this explanation is in accord with the teaching of bacteriological science. Fortunately, the graver malady appered in a mild form. We have said that this report recalls the investigations made by Klein and Power. As we remember the results of their elaborate inquiries and experiments, suggested by the history of several local epidemics of diphtheria and scarlet fever, it was shown that when these diseases attacked cows the effect was slight and the symptoms were unlike those which are observed in the human subject. The visible manifestations of the presence of the disease were an inflammation of or an eruption upon the surface of the udder, and the investigators proved, by a series of experiments, that scarlet fever or diphtheria could be transmitted by means of the milk taken from cows so affected. We have seen no reference to those experiments in the last two or three years, but they were fully reported at the time, and seemed to furnish conclusive proof as to the exceptional form of the diseases when cows were attacked, and as to the method of infection. The discoveries made then, and the history of this epidemic at Finchley, as well as the great mass of evidence concerning milk epidemics of typhoid fever and the prevalence of bovine tuberculosis, show that dairy farms and milk supplies should be subjected to sanitary inspection.

—"Have tried others, but like Ayer's best," is the statement made over and over again by those who testify to the benefit derived from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Disease never had a greater enemy than this powerful blood-purifier. It makes the weak strong.

JOE SKELLY, COMPOSER.

The Writer of Many Popular Songs Dies in Poverty.

Richmond, Va., Times: Joseph P. Skelly, the well known composer and song writer, died a few days ago in a room attached to the charity ward of St. Francis' hospital on East Fifth street. When it was known that Skelly was dying the hospital gong was sounded. Two nurses hurried to the room and removed the furniture. A third nurse brought a table spread with a white cloth, upon which was a crucifix.

Then came the priest and a solemn procession of black-robed Sisters of Charity, each of whom carried a lighted candle. The death-bed services were read by the priest, and the sisters, kneeling upon the bare floor, chanted the prayers for the dying. Thus surrounded Skelly passed peacefully away. None of his relatives and not even an intimate friend was present. Skelly died a poor man, and his body was saved from potter's field by his only relative, a sister who lives in New York. When she heard of the death she went to the hospital and made arrangements for the burial. The funeral was held Wednesday. There was only one mourner, Skelly's sister.

Joseph P. Skelly began writing songs when he was fifteen years old, and before he had reached his 21st year his songs were sung in almost every quarter of the land. One of his early successes was "Only Been Down to the Club," published twenty years ago. The music was catchy and the minstrels made the song popular.

Skelly sold the song for $15, and the publisher made a fortune out of it. The author never regretted the transaction, for the publisher advertised the song extensively, and thus served to introduce Skelly to the other publishers. Frederick Blume, now dead, had a place then on the Bowery, and he sent a note to Skelly, asking him to submit a manuscript. Skelly replied that he would rather submit a sentimental song. Blume told him to go ahead, and the result was Skelly's most popular song, "My Pretty Red Rose," and the one that made Dave Wambold, the minstrel, famous. Blume sold half a million copies of the words and music of the song, and cleared over $50,000. All that Skelly got out of it was $200.

After writing half a hundred songs that met with little success, Skelly produced what he called his masterpiece, "The Old Rustic Bridge by the Mill," published in 1881. His next venture was the musical score for a comic opera, but this proved a failure. Up to this time Skelly had been getting along fairly well. The death of his mother now caused a change in him. He would sit for hours in the back room of a saloon lamenting his mother's death and drowning his sorrow in strong drink. It was after he had taken a drink that he wrote the music of "Sweet Dreams of Mother and Home." Finally, Henry J. Wehman, of Park Row, entered into an agreement with Skelly by which he was to publish exclusively all of his compositions. But Skelly failed to keep the agreement, and he was continually looking for ready cash. When he got it he never stopped drinking until it was gone.

One day he came into Wehman's place, saying that he needed money very badly. "I'll sit down here at the piano," said he, "and I'll compose a new song. I feel it coming. Quick, get some paper. It will be the most sentimental song I ever wrote, and I know it will be a hit."

Then he commenced fingering the piano keys nervously, all the time humming words in an undertone. Rising, he walked to the desk and wrote "The Dying Girl's Message." He wrote out the notes on a piece of wrapping paper and then placed the words beneath them. The beauty of the song, its catchiness and the off-hand manner in which it was written completely captivated the publisher, who exclaimed, as he handed Skelly a cheque:

"Are you sure this is original?"

Skelly answered: "If it isn't I'll eat that cheque; but as it is I'll drink it."

Then he went away to get his cheque cashed in a Bowery bar-room.

Skelly wrote "The Face Upon the Bar room Floor" in a Chatham Square saloon with a bottle of whiskey on a table beside him. After writing this song he staggered down Park Row and sold the song to Publisher Wehman. With the money he received he went on a spree that landed him in the charity hospital on Blackwell's Island. He next turned up in the alcoholic ward at Bellevue. When he left there he was broken down in health, and decided to stop drinking. He disappeared and was not heard of around his old haunts, the Bowery lodging houses, until some one reported that he had returned to the hospital on Blackwell's Island. This proved true.

Skelly was born in New York forty-two years ago. He never married. In his prosperous days he lived at the best hotels, but for the last two years he frequented the Bowery lodging houses.

Esquimalt District, more particularly described as follows: To wit: Commencing at a point on the northern boundary of the said section 14 feet six inches distant from the N. E. corner of before mentioned Section XXXII., thence running easterly along the said boundary 400 feet, thence southerly and parallel to the eastern boundary of the first above described piece of land 325 feet, thence at right angles west 350 feet, thence north to the point of beginning, 198 feet.

Also all that piece or parcel of land forming another portion of Section XXXI., Esquimalt District, bounded as follows, viz.: On the west by the last described piece of land known as Buckley's Orchard, on the south by a line drawn from the south easterly corner of said last described piece to the Craigflower road and parallel to the northern boundary of the said Section XXXI., to the eastward by the Craigflower road, and to the northward by the northern boundary of said Section XXXI.

NOTICE is hereby given that a certificate of indefeasible title to the above lands will be issued to Peter Steele on the 30th day of September, 1895, unless in the meantime a valid objection thereto be made to me in writing by a person claiming an estate or interest therein or any part thereof.

GRANITE CREEK MINES.

The Stevenson, Campbell-Johnson and Captain Scott Propositions.

"Wanderer," writing in the Kamloops Sentinel, says: Granite City, barring the presence of several cabins, is a city by virtue of the palmy days of old, and not present attainments. Years ago, when the C. P. R. was about through, the creek was struck and thousands poured in. There were lively times for a year or two, a dozen hotels, and several stores, and log cabins and shanties of all kinds without number, and lots of gold. But the rich placer workings played out and things fell flat; only one or two who had secured specially good pay staying on. Now things bid fair to see a return of the old prosperity, if not on the old lines and of the old magnitude, still of respectable proportion. But that will be in the future—what is being done now is preparing the way.

A big outfit is at work, or more correctly a big proposition is owned by a syndicate, which is now getting things into shape. Bob Stevenson, one of the promoters of the company, is the president and also manager of the works. The benches are staked out for a mile or two along the creek, and are said to contain rich pay—not of course rich in ordinary individual handling but rich for hydraulic working. In fact there are big stretches of benches on different creeks that have been taken up and time doubtless, if all goes well, will see their development. There are a few men working on the Tulameen, two or three miles lower down (Mr. Thomas, manager) in the interests of Mr. Hogg, the secretary of the same loan and trust company which engineered the Stevenson outfit.

Work on the Stevenson claim is progressing. There has been delay in the getting in of piping for the hydraulic and the machinery for the saw mill. But the saw mill, N. Barwick, sawyer, has now started running, and turned out some two thousand feet at the first run, although it has a much larger capacity if there was sufficient water. Water now is getting low, but Mr. Stevenson anticipates being able to complete the requirements, getting lumber sawn, flume built, and a wash-up for some weeks before shutting down. This will demonstrate approximately the value of the pay and give some basis to go upon in next year's operation. There is a considerable amount of fluming to the place of the intake of the water and a great amount of work in grading and fixing generally. As to the prospects, it is only necessary to say that everybody believes there is a good thing in it, if not a big thing, and perhaps it may turn out better and bigger than expected. There are not many men working at present, and probably not many will be required even when going full blast, until other sections of land are operated on. Then it is likely Granite camp may look up again and be a thriving little place.

There is another outfit, called the Campbell-Johnson's, which was working some seven miles up the creek the fore part of the year, running a tunnel with a view to reaching bedrock. After doing considerable work and running a tunnel some hundreds of feet, the operations were suspended for the present, pending further instructions from the company. Mr. Campbell-Johnson has been away on the company's business to England, and only returned recently, and it is likely work will be resumed either this fall or next spring. There is also work in prospect by the same company on a neighboring creek. Mr. Lambert is the working manager.

On the Similkameen work is well forward, lumber for fluming almost complete, done with whip-saw most of it, and everything bids fair, if no accident happens, for a fulfilment of Captain Scott's calculations, for a six weeks' wash-up this fall. Of course, water is failing, and pipe is not, or was not, all in, but sometimes the unforeseen happens, but if anything in the way of a rustle will do it, it will be done. There is a saw mill now on the ground and it only needs a little patience and we shall hear what is going to be the result of the mining here. Some of the men have been paid off, as their services ceased to be required; and at first there were, all told, some 40 men in the camp. This staff will be further reduced when the flume is running, until next year when fresh ground is dealt with. And here it may be said that the benches for miles have been taken up by the company, or by individual members. Prospecting and [illegible] have been done, and if everything goes right next year, it seems likely that in this section of country there will be a rather lively hum. But still, do not let it be supposed that it will mean anything big, as ordinarily understood, in the way of crowds of men. Crowds of men are not required in hydraulicing. But if the yellow stuff is found, that will set things going all round, in Similkameen, in Granite, in Nicola and everywhere, and that is what some people, after their own fashion, are praying for.

There is another smaller outfit working on the same stream, two or three miles below, and quite a number of individual prospects in and around the vicinity. But it looks as if whatever was the coat in other days when a man could get gold by the handful out of a shovelful of gravel, with a rocker, now, there is not much show for anybody except on hydraulic lines. The workable gravel has been played out—now is the day of the benches and monitors, and piping, and a big head of water, with money to work it, and a moneyed syndicate at the back.

THE NEW DOCTRINE.

An Outline of the Arguments of the Lecturer at the Theosophical Meeting.

A summary of the lecture at the Theosophical Society's usual meeting follows: The author of the Secret Doctrine, Madame Blavatsky, used to say that the 19th century would close before the western world waked up to a realization of the magnitude and scope of the system of thought outlined in her books. No wonder that it should be so, in an age of scientific dogmatism as bitter and tyrannical as that of Theology itself. Certainly in such an age it is something unique to see a philosopher that not only deals with ethics, but at the same time and without any break carries on successfully a wide criticism of modern science, showing where it is at fault, and pointing out the direction in which sounder knowledge may be sought. Perhaps the very vastness of the undertaking has helped to blind people to the miracle that has been wrought. At any rate the author's clear insight of the future is unmistakable, as may been seen from the following passage:

"It is barely possible that the minds of the present generation are not quite ripe for the reception of occult truths. The generations of our Fifth race will continue to be led away by prejudice and preconceptions. Occult sciences will have the finger of scorn pointed at them from every street-corner, and everyone will seek to ridicule and crush them in the name and for the greater glory of materialism and its so-called science. The present volumes, however, show, in an anticipatory answer to several of the forthcoming scientific objections, the true and mutual positions of the defendant and plaintiff. The theosophists and occultists stand arraigned by public opinion, which still holds high the banner of the inductive sciences. The latter have then to be examined, and it must be shown how far their achievements and discoveries in the realm of natural law are opposed, not so much to our claims, as to facts in nature. The hour has now struck to ascertain whether the walls of the modern Jericho are so impregnable that no blast of the occult trumpet is ever likely to make them crumble. But old and time-honored errors, such as become with every day more glaring and self-evident, stand arrayed in battle order now as they did years ago. Marshalled by blind conservatism, conceit and prejudice, they are constantly on the watch, ready to strangle every truth, which, awaking from its age-long sleep, happens to knock for admission. Such has been the case ever since man became an animal. That this proves in every case moral death to the revealers who bring to light any of these old, old truths, is as certain as that it gives life and regeneration to those who are to profit even by the little that is now revealed to them."

These are some of the prophetic words which are to be found scattered at intervals through the great works of Madame Blavatsky. How true they are has been made pretty clear in the years that have passed since they were penned. And it cannot be urged that the onslaught made on some of the pet theories of modern science is in any way gratuitous or uncalled for. The deadliest admissions have frequently come from its foremost defenders. In fact it is notable that Professors Huxley and Tyndall were the clearest in affirming that we know nothing after all of the essential nature either of matter or of force. It has been said that the highways of science are strewed everywhere with the wrecks of abandoned hypotheses. So it seems evident that the teacher to come forward and shed light to rout the hosts of materialism, and usher in a new era, of which the chief note should be, the spiritual as the essential part in nature and man, the material but its outer garb. What the great heritage is that lies before man as he awakes to the consciousness of his inner being nothing but Theosophical teaching can, in its fullness, disclose. We can, however, conceive that as one by one the limitations of the personal self drop away, the inward horizon widens, the pulsations of the great heart of humanity stir within the breast, and a great sense of power is born from the merging of the individual will with that Divine will which forever executes [illegible] purpose of Nature. The man. New worlds move within the field of the new expanded consciousness. And those great Beings whose existence and reality was held hitherto mainly as a matter of faith, are beheld by the awakening soul as veritable elder brothers, who are the very self of compassion, and whose spiritual insight flashes across past and future with the vision of a God. —Com.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed an exhibit at the World's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the World's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."

RUSSIA, SWEDEN AND NORWAY.

Another Question That May Upset Arrangements in Europe.

Ever since the rearrangement of the map of Europe after the Napoleonic wars the boundary between Russia and Norway has remained fixed and stationary, if an atlas be consulted, it will be noticed that in one district, in the extreme north of Norriand, Russian territory reaches to within a few miles of the Varanger Fjord, a narrow strip only of Norwegian territory intervening between it and the coast. This fjord contains many fine harbors, which are free from ice all the year round; just such harbors as Russia has always coveted. Under present conditions, Russia's navy in war time would have to base its operations from three inland seas, two of which are rendered unnavigable by ice during the winter months. It will be easy to realize what an accession to Russia's naval strength the acquisition of such an open port on the North Sea would be. Although Russia, during a period of 80 years, has made no openly aggressive movement against Norway, she has nevertheless pursued her well known methods of preparing a way beforehand. She has done all within her power to encourage her subjects to emigrate into Norrland and settle there, with the result that there are at the present date considerable numbers of Russian Finns inhabiting the neighborhood of the Varanger. She has also, with the permission of Norway, "bien entendu," constructed a railway which connects Russia with the eastern margin of the fjord. Should the Norwegian separatists get their way, a step, a very important one, would be gained by Russia. Members of the party have before now openly advocated the surrender of the Varanger Fjord to Russia. It has even been suspected that they may have entered into negotiations with a view to ascertaining if Russia would be willing to lend them her support in their efforts to obtain separation, and offering the fjord as the price to be paid for it. But this is not all. At the time of the formation of the union between Sweden and Norway, England, Prussia and Austria guaranteed the integrity of Norway. Thus, as things are now situated, any act on the part of Russia against Norrland might, and probably would, be treated by the guaranteeing powers as a casus belli. But, in the event of the union being repealed, this treaty guarantee would no longer hold good, and thus another obstacle in the way of Russia would be removed.—The Fortnightly Review.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER Rejoice Together.

Nine Year Old Maggie McRitchie, a Victim of Chronic Fainting Spells and Nervous Weakness, Completely Cured by South American Nervine After all Other Efforts had failed. The Mother, a Sufferer From Nervous Prostration and Indigestion, Likewise Cured. Hear What the Thankful Father Has to Say.

MRS. JAMES McRITCHIE AND DAUGHTER.

A leading local physician, whose profession takes him among the children of the various public institutions, remarked to the writer, that one would hardly believe that so many children were affected by nervous troubles, which sap the system and prevent proper development. In many cases the doctors are powerless to cure these troubles. They can relieve the suffering little ones, but in South American Nervine we have a medicine that does more than simply give relief. Its peculiar strength is that it completely cures where physicians relieve. A case in point came to us the 24th ult., in a letter from Mr. James W. McRitchie of Bothwell, Ont. He says:—"My daughter Maggie, aged 9 years, was afflicted with nervous fainting spells for over a year, which left her in such a condition of weakness afterwards that the child was practically an invalid. We tried several remedies and doctored with her in one way and another, but nothing gave relief. Seeing South American Nervine advertised, as particularly efficacious in nervous diseases, I decided on trying it for her, and I must say that I noticed a decided change in my daughter for the better after she had taken only a few doses. As a result of using this medicine, she is now entirely free from those fainting spells and possessed of that life and brightness that is the happy lot of childhood. I am satisfied it is an excellent medicine for any nervous weakness. My experience has been further supplemented in the fact that my wife has also been using South American Nervine for indigestion, dyspepsia and nervous prostration, and has found very great relief."

Whether the patient be man or woman, young or old, South American Nervine provides a complete medium for restoration to health. It is a medicine differing absolutely from every other. A cure is effected by application to the nerve centres of the human system, and science has proved that when these nerve centres are kept healthy the whole body is healthy. For these reasons failure is impossible.

CABINET REPRESENTATION.

The News-Advertiser—faithful organ—takes the government view that British Columbia is not unjustly treated in the matter of cabinet representation, which it supports by arguments that run aside from the facts. It says at one point: "While every resident of British Columbia would, of course, be pleased to see a representative of the province in the Dominion cabinet, there are not a few who would be opposed to the adoption of a rule which required that every province should have at least one representative in the cabinet." Again it argues—or rather lectures—in the following strain: "While British Columbia may seem at the present moment to be prejudiced by the system which has hitherto prevailed, we think any change in the direction suggested would not be found to give satisfactory results. In the selection of men for cabinet positions, the same rule which applies without much variation in professional and commercial pursuits will be found to apply—there is always room on the top rungs of the ladder for those whose capacity marks them out from their fellows. And this is one great reason why we should be sorry to see any system introduced which would interfere in any manner with the country being free to secure the services of her most gifted sons who had a seat in parliament." Then, as a sort of "finisher:"

"It would, we consider, be a disaster to the country were the territorial distribution of cabinet offices adopted. Of course provinces which have a very large proportion of the members in parliament must necessarily secure large representation in the cabinet if their representatives are on a par—as regards ability—with those from the other provinces. But to require provincial representation would, in the case of the smaller provinces, simply result in a crop of candidates whose wealth or personal ambition would be the chief recommendation for a seat in the cabinet."

One very important fact which the News-Advertiser chooses to ignore is that the system which it deprecates has already been adopted as regards all parts of the country except British Columbia. No impartial man can look at the cabinet and say honestly that the "territorial distribution of offices" is not already in force everywhere to the east of the Rockies. It is a notorious fact that Mr. Daly was taken into the cabinet because he represented a Manitoba district and not because of his personal fitness. Senator Ferguson was made a cabinet minister without portfolio simply and solely to give Prince Edward Island representation. If any one of the four provinces, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, were represented in parliament by a brainless band of noodles, still at least one of those noodles would be found a seat in the cabinet on the "territorial" principle. This "territorial" rule has already been adopted; if it is the wrong one, as the Advertiser contends, our contemporary should demand its abandonment; if, on the other hand, it is right, British Columbia is most unjustly treated in being left out in its operation. We suppose the News-Advertiser is aware of the inference which its arguments imply, that all the British Columbia representatives are inferior in point of ability to all the present cabinet members. That estimate is not very flattering, coming from a professed friend. If it is to be taken as correct, then the sooner British Columbia sets about improving the character of its representation the better.

NOT "GREATLY DISSATISFIED."

The Ottawa correspondent of the organ has discovered that the Liberal press "are greatly dissatisfied" because Archbishop Langevin has denied in an interview the accuracy of a Montreal newspaper's report, which was to the effect that his policy on the Manitoba school question would not permit of any compromise. Like master like man. The correspondent is but imitating the partizan foolishness of the organ itself. The Liberal press would be untrue to its history and to the principles of Liberalism were it to advocate a policy of intolerance and bigotry, or take pleasure in witnessing the division of the people of Canada into two religious factions. Archbishop Langevin's admission, and Mr. Martin's letter, read together, suggest the possibility of a rapprochement which may, possibly, lead to a mutually satisfactory settlement without the interference of the Bowell government. Seeing that the Liberal press have always opposed federal interference in purely provincial affairs, they cannot, as a body, oppose the views or efforts of those who seek to avert another attack on provincial autonomy. The school question at present is the fight of the Dominion government, but it may become the duty of the Liberal party to settle it. Anything, therefore, that will tend to narrow the breach can not "greatly dissatisfy" the Liberal press, for it is clear that when they are charged after the general election with administering the affairs of the country they will not want the difficulties which have been created by the present government, augmented to such an extent that a settlement on lines acceptable to both sides will be impossible. The Ottawa correspondent in question will more surely preserve a reputation for impartiality and accuracy by leaving to his editor the preparation of partizan political pabulum of this kind. Besides the latter is an adept at this work.

Now that the Victoria members have returned to Victoria, the name of Col Prior is not likely to appear daily in the Ottawa correspondence of the Colonist. During the session the Col. has been a perennial text for a puff, to the entire exclusion of his colleague, Mr. Earle. Judging from the Colonist, Col. Prior was the only Victoria member in Ottawa, or at least he was the only one worth mentioning by "our correspondent." There was, we suppose, some reason for booming the Col. and ignoring Mr. Earle, but it may not be the duty of an oppositionist to inquire too closely into the matter. Both gentlemen are now here in the flesh, and the senior member will be able to convince his constituents that he was in Ottawa, the Colonist to the contrary notwithstanding.

A rumor has started from Conservative sources that Chief Justice Meredith of Ontario will leave the bench and re-enter politics as successor to Sir Mackenzie Bowell in the premiership and the Conservative leadership. The most interesting feature of this rumor is the confession it implies, that neither Sir Mackenzie Bowell nor any of the men who now serve under him is fit for the first position in the party and the government. To use a sporting phrase, it is felt that none of them are "up to cup form." No doubt that feeling is very general, but it does not seem at all likely to result in Chief Justice Meredith making the sug-

The Times has commenced an action against the Central News, a small news agency in this city, claiming that the terms of its contract with the Central News to supply cable messages from the war in the far east was not fulfilled, inasmuch as the dispatches supplied were not true or substantial copies of cable messages and that some of them were concerted by or on behalf of the defendants and that others were largely altered. The Times therefore asks for a declaration that the publishers of the Times are not responsible for the claim made for further payments of $41 for such "war news." The Central News deny the allegations.

The report from Vladivostock, via St. Petersburg, that Japan is raising her army and navy to a war footing is given no credence at the Japanese legation. No immediate trouble with Russia is anticipated according to advices, and the second, or reserve, army is being disbanded. Japan is said, however, to be broadening the basis for possibilities in case of war, in that she is arranging for further recruiting her navy. No vessels, however, have been purchased from Peru. The cruiser Esmeralda was purchased from Chili before the Chinese war ended. Mail advices received a few days ago indicate that fighting on the island of Formosa has been rather heavier than the cable reports indicated, but there is no information to show that the rebels are being supported by the viceroys of southern China.

To-day's session of the International Geographical congress was occupied in the discussion of polar explorations. Dr. Newmayer and Jos. Hanker, survivors of the Arctic expedition headed by Sir John Ross in 1829-33, urged that a fresh expedition be equipped, and Dr. Newmayer, of the Challenger expedition, argued in support of the theory that the Atlantic continent was not a succession of volcanic islands, and that an investigation in the Antarctic ocean ought to be taken by the nations of the world. A small committee was appointed to draft a resolution in favor of further exploration.

The lugger Zenith has been burned off Baltimore, County Cork. The flames broke out shortly before midnight and spread rapidly in spite of the efforts of the crew. Nine men are missing and eighteen others have been rescued by the coast guards. The lugger had a crew of six men and twenty-one passengers, who were on a pleasure excursion from Glendare, to which place they were returning when the flames burst through the vessel's hatchway. A panic followed and the boat which was lowered was swamped by crowding. Nine persons were drowned.

An official dispatch received at Madrid from Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands, says that the natives of Cabagan, in the province of Cagayan, at the north extremity of the island of Luzon, recently treacherously ambushed a party of Spanish troops, killing and wounding several of the soldiers. Consequently the Spanish punitive column was sent to Cabagan, and attacked and burned that town after a fight in which 116 natives were killed, including the principal leaders. The Spanish lost a captain and 16 soldiers killed and several men wounded.

The Russian Petroleum Company announce in the Navoe Vremya that they have not agreed with the American petroleum syndicate to partition the market.

The Paris elections for members of councils generally resulted in the Republicans gaining three-quarters of the seats. Several election fights occurred in several places in the provinces. At Robonax, in the department of the north, there was a collision between the Republicans and Collectives, and the gendarmes had to charge repeatedly before the disturbance was quelled. A number of persons were injured and a few arrests were made. Serious riots, accompanied by bloodshed, are reported at Barbantane, near Marseilles. Troops have been despatched to the scene of the rioting.

A fire broke out at Hamburg in the warehouse of the Bonded Spirit company on the island of Steinwarder. The fire soon spread to several other warehouses in which were stored a quantity of Holland gin, 50,000 sacks of sugar, 20,000 barrels of lard and a large quantity of ivory, all of which was destroyed. The water was aflame for a long time with flaring spirits. One man lost his life during the progress of the fire. Damage, 1,000,000 marks.

TO ALDERMAN HALL.

To the Editor:—As the member of streets and bridge committee of the city council, for James Bay ward, may I ask you to explain to the voters in your ward the object of that committee in purchasing the refuse stone from the government buildings and having the same prepared for putting on our roads? That this stone is worse than useless for that object one has only to look at the dust created at the entrance to the grounds on Menzies street, where a short time ago you had to wade through that crossing ankle deep in stone flour. You have only to put your foot on a small piece, give it a twist, and imagine what Belleville street will be this winter with the heavy traffic to and from the outer wharf. Had the committee made arrangements with the contractors to haul away the stone free of charge (for the use of it) it would have gone a long way toward making a permanent roadway across the mud flats, where the bridge now ornaments (?) our city. As it is, it is a scandalous waste of public money, for which some one ought to be held answerable.

—The attraction at the Victoria Theatre to-night will be the best of all and the engagement then was most prosperous and pleasant. The company that will be seen in this comedy will no doubt be warmly welcomed, as it has among is members those artists which have made comedy famous. The story of the play can be profitably recalled at this time. A gay young London bachelor has been living for three years on the interest of an estate bequeathed him on the condition that he marries. This estate is in the hands of trustee, who pays the young man the income, because the latter has informed him that he has taken a wife. The young man is not only extravagant, and one fine day the trustee resolves to go up to London and remonstrate with him. When the young fellow learns of his coming he is in a dilemma. He has no wife, but bribes the housemaid, Jane, to impersonate her. Jane has married William, a manservant, whom she persuades for financial reasons to consent to the deception. A baby is borrowed and all manner of absurd devices are employed to deceive the confiding old trustee. The fun is fast and furious through three acts, but finally explanations are made, and all ends happily.

—Leader Finn has given the B. C. G. G. A. band a very novel descriptive piece to practice and it will very likely be rendered at an early date. It is called "The Critic's Dream," and the idea is a novel one. A critic hears an organist playing a pretty bit of music and praises it. The organist smiles and tells him it is only "Annie Rooney" played slowly. The critic derides him for playing it at all, saying that it is not music, and that night in a dream a lot of the old masters appear to him and play some of their grandest compositions and through them runs the strain of "Annie Rooney." They hold it is music, and most people will, when they hear it running through "Stabat Mater," and the Tannhauser March, and several other classics. The arrangement is most ingenious, and the cornetist will no doubt be heard with the greatest interest.

ON THE NORTHERN RIVERS

The Salmon Run Improves on the Skeena and Very Good at Other Places.

W. A. Robertson Discovers an Eighteen Foot Seam of Coal—Other News.

Captain Meyer, of the steamer Danube, which arrived from the north yesterday, reports that the run of salmon in the northern rivers is very good. It has improved since the beginning of the season on the Skeena river, and a long run is expected. At all other places where there are canneries the runs are good. For the following summary of the pack the Times is indebted to Capt. Meyer: July 20th, Naas River cannery, 5,500 cases; Mill Bay, 3,700; Inverness, 6,000; North Pacific, 7,000; July 23rd, Balmoral, 7,000; B. A. P. Company, 9,500; Cunningham, 5,500; July 24th, Carlisle, 6,500; Claxton, 6,500; Standard, 6,000; Lowe's Inlet, 6,000; July 26th, Namu, 2,000; Wannock, 10,000; River's Inlet cannery, 26,000; Good Hope, 16,000, and Alert Bay, 3,500; a total of 126,700. Fishing will continue for some time yet.

The Skidegate Oil Company have put up 25,000 gallons of oil and are still fishing.

W. A. Robertson, who has been prospecting on Queen Charlotte Island, has discovered another seam of coal. It is eighteen feet through and is said to be of very good quality. Queen Charlotte Island, when developed, promises to equal Vancouver Island as far as coal is concerned. A number of samples taken from the seam were brought down.

Four families of Norwegians, belonging to the Bella Coola colony, came down on the Danube and are returning east. Most of them are old people, who did not think it advisable to start in at their time in life to make a new home in the heavy timbered country that they found at Bella Coola.

Mrs. Nash, whose husband fell from the deck of the City of Topeka and was drowned, secured a searching party and is making a search along the coast for his body. As the currents run towards the shores of the island, there is every probability of the body being found.

—There was a collision at Store and Johnson streets this morning between a buggy, in which J. Merrifield rode, and a big Esquimalt car. The buggy was bowled over and Mr. Merrifield was thrown out. As usual there are two sides to the story. One is that the motorman gave no warning of his approach, and the other is that Mr. Merrifield should not have attempted to drive across the track ten feet in front of a moving car.

—A. Ambel, night waiter at the Louisville restaurant, was arrested this afternoon charged with robbing the till of the restaurant. The complaint was made by Peter Metro, proprietor of the place, and there are two counts, one of stealing $2.85 and another of $2.50. According to the story told by Metro he had had Ambel under suspicion for some time and decided on a systematic watch. A hole was bored through the floor and ceiling from the room upstairs over the restaurant and a sentry stood guard for several nights running, and watching every move in the restaurant below. Thus the complainant got what he regards as sufficient evidence to convict Ambel of theft.

ON THE LACROSSE FIELD.

Victoria Loses to Vancouver in the 'Home' Match on Saturday Afternoon.

Capitals Have it All Their Own Way With the Westminster Intermediates.

It was a very rugged game of lacrosse that a large number of Victorians went to Caledonia Park to witness on Saturday afternoon. In the first place Victoria had a decidedly weak team, and although Vancouver had a very much stronger one it was some time before they played the game as it should be played. The Vancouver men looked very neat with their new gray suits, being a decided contrast to the shabby suits worn by the members of the home team. Mr. Ross Eckardt acted as referee, and the game started with Messrs. W. J. Smith, of Victoria, and E. J. Murphy, of Vancouver, behind the flags. Mr. Smith, however, retired after the second game, Vancouver disputing a goal that he gave to Victoria, and Mr. Murphy retired after the third game for not giving Victoria a game claimed by them. They were succeeded by Messrs. R. L. Drury and E. V. Bodwell. There was no dissatisfaction whatever with Mr. Eckardt, none of his decisions being disputed.

The first game started with attacks at both ends of the field, both homes making determined efforts to score, giving the defences chances to distinguish themselves. For Victoria Belfry, Coldwell and W. H. Cullin played hard and steadily, saving the flags time and time again, while Vancouver's flags were well looked after by J. Quann, Quigley, F. Miller and Suckling. After eight minutes' play Campbell scored for Vancouver.

Although the second game was won by Victoria it was pretty well a repetition of the first. The older players on the Victoria team were trying to cover both their own checks and those of the weaker members of the team, giving the visitors a chance to play a good combination game. Finally Bland, who had been pretty closely watched by his older and heavier check, Suckling, secured the ball, and, taking a shot from mid-field, scored for Victoria. Time, 5 minutes.

Had Victoria at this stage of the game a couple of stronger players in place of the juniors they would have had a good chance of winning. Vancouver, as it was, having hard work to keep the ball away from their goal. Quigley threw it the whole length of the field several times, but it was immediately turned by either Belfry, W. H. Cullin or Coldwell, while Patterson, Tite and Ditchburn were working hard and effectively against odds in the field. The referee's whistle blew for a little scuffle between Tite and Peard just as C. Cullin scored for Victoria. The game did not count, and play being resumed Ralph scored for Vancouver. Time, 14 minutes.

Just four minutes after starting the fourth game, Bland again scored for Victoria, Ditchburn having passed it to him.

The fifth game only lasted half a minute, Myers picking the ball from the draw and running towards Victoria's goal made a pretty and effective shot.

Vancouver was now ahead and Victoria made a strong effort to pick up. Tite and Ditchburn crowded in on the visitors' goal and with the assistance of the Cullin brothers and Bland tried hard to score. But Quann's stick was always in the way. Quann and F. Cullin got mixed up behind the goal and were sent to the fence. This seemed to change matters, and although the home team's defence worked hard Ralph scored for Vancouver in 18½ minutes.

Ralph scored the seventh game for Vancouver in 6 minutes, ending the match.

The league standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	To Play
Vancouver	4	1	3
New Westminster	2	3	3
Victoria	2	4	2

ENDLESS CAR TRACKS.

The Interesting Process of Welding Rails by Electricity.

Tom L. Johnson's welder began operations on the new Jefferson avenue track just east of Dequindre street at 8.30 o'clock last night, and a large crowd of people hovered around until a late hour, watching the interesting process of making an endless rail. The machinery is carried on three cars, which, when seen from a little distance, look like a railroad wrecking train.

The first car, weighing eight tons, is the compressing machine by means of which contraction and expansion of the rails is overcome artificially. The patents covering this machine are owned by the Johnson company, and this is the first time the apparatus has been used in the welding of rails. At the end of the car is a hydraulic jack, which is operated by a hand and develops a pressure of about 100 tons. After the fish plates, which are temporarily put on the joints in order to hold the rails in position, have been removed, the jack is placed over the joint. It is so arranged that one jaw seizes one rail and the other jaw takes hold of the adjoining rail. The pump is started, and the force compresses the rails sufficiently to overcome the contracting effects of cold temperature on iron. Thus in cold weather the rails have no tendency to contract, and the possibility of a defective weld breaking is thus obviated. When the rails are made the ends are cut with a slight bevel to ensure a tight fit on the top and bottom. After the rails have been artificially compressed the ends are forced apart from one-sixteenth to one-quarter of an inch, and a section of rail, fitting the opening, is inserted to prevent the rails from expanding again.

On the second car, which is also used for the carriage of tools, are emery wheels operated by independent motors, which receive their current from the trolley. The emery wheels are used for grinding off the rust and scales from the rails, about one inch on both sides of the joint, in order to make a quicker job and a better and more even weld.

The third car is the welder proper. It weighs about thirty-two tons, and contains a lot of electrical machinery. There are two large motor dynamos, one of which is used to increase the voltage of the current coming from the trolley, which varies on the trolley from 493 volts up to 500 volts. From this dynamo the current passes to the alternator, which changes the direct current of 500 volts to an alternating current of 250 volts, at the same time increasing the current from 300 to 500 amperes. The current then passes to the real welding apparatus, which consists of two transformers in multiple, and is fitted with copper jaws for applying pressure to the weld after heating the rails. In these transformers the current is changed from 500 to about 30,000 amperes. This current is applied to the ends of the rails, and heats them in from five to six minutes to a temperature of nearly 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit. The only thing used in addition to the electric force is powdered borax, applied with a copper spoon, for the purpose of removing any dirt adhering to the rails and aiding fusion. The copper jaws of the welder are kept cool by means of water pumped up from a tank underneath the car. It holds 500 gallons and is filled from the street hydrants.

During the early hours, after midnight, when but few cars are running, four joints, or two rail lengths, can be made in one hour, but during the day and evening there are too many interruptions, as the trolley connections have to be suspended whenever a car passes. Thus, during fifteen hours' work out of twenty-four, progress is made at the rate of about one-eighth of a mile. Two shifts of nine men each are employed in doing this work.—Detroit Fre Press.

A STRAIN ON THE EYES.

One of the Common Causes of Disagreeable Pains in the Head.

One of the common causes of pain above the brow is the overuse of the eyes and the strain of accommodation in constantly looking at near objects. In its transient form it may be familiar to some as the result of a visit to a picture gallery; but in more senses than one this may be known as "the academy headache," for it is temporarily developed in a morning spent at Burlington House, it is even more readily excited and permanently established among the children at the board schools, and the girls of the high schools. Seventy-two per cent of the children of to-day are said to be sufferers from defective eyesight, generally in the direction of difficulty in seeing near objects clearly. Headache is almost always present in the cases of the poor little creatures, whose bodies are starved while their minds are overfed in the scramble for educational grants.

The ocular headache is often coexistent with the anæmic headache, especially in growing girls; here we find frontal or surpraorbital pain, due to eye strain associated with the vertical pain felt all over the top of the head, which is characteristic of bloodlessness. Plenty of wholesome food, fresh air, and out-of-door exercise will help to combat the anæmia; while the practice of looking at distant objects, and, alas! the use of appropriate spectacles, may relieve the headache of eye strain; but reading, writing, and sewing will permanently damage the sight, so that for the sake of education, and in the struggle for life, the coming race is growing up purblind.—The National Review.

KAMLOOPS.

On Wednesday morning near Spence's Bridge the dead body of a man named Chris Hanson, who had been working on the railway rock gang, was found at the side of the railway track with a hand car near.

Mr. Peter Smiley, a pioneer of 1855, came to the Inland hospital from Vernon Thursday night, suffering from paralysis.

Thos. McConnell and partner came in this week from prospecting on the upper part of Tranquille creek. They found gold, but not in paying quantities. Mr. J. A. Russell's men will have a clean-up where they are sluicing on the Tranquille on Saturday.

ROSSLAND.

(Rossland Miner.)

The first lath and plaster work was begun in Rossland this week.

During the first three weeks of July Trail Creek has shipped almost $100,000 worth of ore.

They are sacking ore on the Cliff mine. It is too precious to ship in bulk. This is taken from the new chute discovered lately. It is expected that the tunnel will tap this chute in about fifty feet.

The action of the C.P.R. in putting a survey party in the field has set everybody guessing. The officials of the company have not divulged their plans, if they have any.

The miners' union of Trail Creek was finally started on Tuesday night, and from the number enrolled as members it is clear that whatever may be thought of a union by the Nelson Miner, it is highly acceptable to the miners of the country. Mr. Boyce addressed a large crowd from a hotel balcony. There may have been those who expected the harangue of a demagogue, arousing passions better let sleep, and overshadowing the growing prosperity of a new camp with the bitterness of class prejudice. Instead, they listened to a man who began with an eloquent tribute to the harmonious relations which exist in Canada between laborers and employers and the professional and business classes, and who went on to remind his hearers that the object of organization was to prevent trouble, not to cause it, and self-protection, not the injury of others, and who put it on record that organized labor wanted nothing more than the settlement of all disputes by arbitration.

D. C. Corbin has filed a lis pendens against the Paris Belle Mining company. Mr. Corbin may have some legitimate cause of dispute with the company in question. If so, let him go to it. But if he for one moment thinks he can interfere with anything done lawfully under the mineral act by a free miner or a mining company, he will find that railway magnates are governed by their charters, and that the limitations of their charters are enforced by law. The Canadian Pacific railway tried once to interfere with a free miner's rights, and only once. Mr. Corbin had better not try it at all.

John C. Davenport arrived on Wednesday night and on Thursday morning he traded for one of the handsomest prospects in the camp, the Homestake, located about three-quarters of a mile south of Rossland and on the R. E. Lee vein. It has on it a shaft 18 feet deep, another 12 feet deep, and two open cuts, all showing a strong, well defined vein of clean ore. This is one of the oldest locations in the camp, having been staked in 1890. It was owned by Bordan and Wharton, bonded to C. F. Caldwell and sold by John M. Burke to Mr. Davenport, an old mining friend of his. The price given for the claim was $35,000.

The following was the output of the mines for dates mentioned:

MIDWAY.

Midway Advance.

Many mining men are finding their way into Long Lake, our new free gold quartz camp. They are watching development upon the several claims very attentively, and no doubt the near future will witness some important transactions take place.

Having apparently satisfied themselves that all is well that ends well, and the expression is very appropriate when applied to the shaft recently sunk to a depth of 100 feet on the Emma claim in the Summit Camp, the management have directed their attention for a time to a duplicate vein of ore which runs parallel to the one developed, with the object in view of prospecting the ledge to get some idea as to the extent of the ore body to be found on the claim.

The owners of the Sunset claim, Deadwood camp, are contemplating carrying on active development work upon their property.

Recent work on the Cordick claim, Summit camp, has disclosed a fine body of ore.

On Wednesday last Mr. W. T. Smith acquired the following interests in mining properties for Messrs. Farrell & Midgeon, of Butte, Mon., viz., ½ interest in the Stemwinder, ¾ interest in the Phoenix, ¼ interest in the Montezuma, and ⅛ interest in the Rawhide; all situated in the Greenwood camp, and purchased from Mr. Denzler.

Thirty-four represents the number of claims recorded this week. This enormous boom in the location of claims means something for the district in the near future.

Not for some time has a deal been made fraught with so much importance to the Boundary Creek district as the transaction which took place here on Wednesday last, when the remaining half interest in the Stemwinder claim, situated in Greenwood camp, passed out of the possession of its owner, Mr. R. Denzler, into the hands of Messrs. Farrell & Midgeon, of Butte, Mon., who, last fall, acquired the other interest in the claim from Mr. Schofield, Mr. Denzler's co-partner. The significance of the transfer will the more readily be understood when it is stated that the claim has always been looked upon as among the first of the many large properties to be found in this, the recognized best of our mining camps. And further for some years past the property owners in this district have been anxiously awaiting the advent of mining operations that should prove the depth and stability of the enormous ore bodies that are to be found in this and the neighboring camps. The announcement made by Mr. W. T. Smith, who purchased the property for the above named gentlemen, that work would be commenced at once, by the sinking of a shaft two or three hundred feet deep, will therefore be received by all with great satisfaction, and the acquisition of the property by such men of known wealth and influence in the mining world, just at this time,—when the attention of outsiders is being drawn to our Boundary Creek camps—may, in all probability, mark a distinct era in the history of our progress.

REVELSTOKE.

Revelstoke Mail.

O. B. Williams brought down $300 worth of nuggets from the Consolation on Tuesday.

John Miller, who has been prospecting in the Bend, came down to-day and recorded a gold quartz location in the Ground Hog Basin on McCulloch Creek. He says it is free milling.

On Tuesday Tom Edwards disposed of his quarter interest in the White Owl, Plated Prince and Silver Tip to James Anderson. The consideration is said to be $5000. Mr. Edwards says there are a number of experts looking over the Lardeau, some of whom are there on speculation, while others are in to see particular locations.

Business in the Lardeau country is steadily improving, and everything points to a revival of interest in this important section of West Kootenay. An evidence of this is that the owners of all the best claims have gone to work with renewed energy, thus showing their continued faith in the future of the district. As a result of this activity the Trout Lake country will be shipping ore next month.

The heavy freight traffic between the main line and down river points is giving the navigation company more than they can do. The Kootenay brought up three cars of Alpha ore on Monday, and on Thursday the Lytton had one car of Alpha and two from the Slocan Star. On the return trip Monday both the Lytton and Kootenay were loaded to the water line, the former having four and the latter six carloads of merchandise. Thursday the Lytton took down four more carloads and was compelled to leave three cars on the track here.

Hugh McPherson and A. J. Bettles, of Phillipsburg, Mont., have been to Trout Lake looking up mining properties. They came up on the Marion on Tuesday, accompanied by Tom Edwards and on Wednesday a deal was completed to bond the Old Sonoma, located on the Great Northern lead and owned by Tom Edwards, Guy Barber and some three or four railroad men. The bond, upon which a cash payment of $1000 has been made, is to run for 90 days. Work will be commenced immediately, and they expect to ship ore within a month.

GOLDEN.

Golden Era.

A few weeks ago Hon. F. W. Aylmer, who has for years been interested in the mineral development of East Kootenay, and his partner, Mr. James White, being convinced that gold-bearing quartz was not solely confined to the mountain tops, turned their attention to an examination of the foothills on the Bugaboo, and have been amply rewarded for their trouble by the discovery of what is known to prospectors as the "Balrath" ledge. This ledge has been for many years well known to prospectors without ever attracting their serious attention. It remained for the above named gentlemen to demonstrate its true value. Balrath is cut by the Bugaboo creek about four miles from its junction with the Columbia river, and is 45 miles by direct steamboat route from Golden. A survey of the property shows well defined "croppings" that the ledge extends for 6500 feet, with every probability of it being of much greater extent. But, as it runs "blind" to the south of the Bugaboo, this has yet to be ascertained. The ledge, which cuts the surrounding slate in a northwesterly direction, is 12 feet in width, and shows from a careful sampling throughout its whole length an average value of $52 in gold to the ton.

NANAIMO.

Nanaimo, July 27.—The cricket match on the new grounds on Saturday between Victoria and Nanaimo resulted in a win for the former by 29 runs. These grounds are without exception the finest in the province, having cost the New Vancouver Coal Company a considerable sum to put them in such excellent condition. They are as well kept as any gentleman's lawn and are about eight acres in area.

The bicycle meet on Saturday at the Caledonian grounds was poorly attended, owing, probably, to the cricket match taking place on the same day. The principal riders were badly handicapped and the prizes fell to the poorest riders.

After paying all expenses the sum of $100 has been handed over to Mrs. Kelly from the recent production of H. M. S. Pinafore.

Miss Senton has been sent over to the asylum at New Westminster under instructions from Victoria.

G. McGuffie and Miss E. Hudson were united in marriage at St. Paul's early this morning.

VANCOUVER.

Vancouver, July 29.—William Carey, aged 16, an apprentice in the C. P. R. shops, was drowned in English Bay last evening. He became exhausted while swimming to the float some distance from the shore. Two of his companions swam out to rescue him, but they also became exhausted and were obliged to abandon him in order to save themselves. The drowned lad weighed 170 pounds, and it was with some difficulty that the body was recovered after being in the water ten minutes. The doctors worked for two hours in the effort to revive him, but it was of no avail. He was the son of C. P. R. locomotive engineer Carey, of the western division of the C. P. R.

W. J. McCuskar, clerk in the office of the Hastings mill, was held up and robbed of $800 by two masked men on Friday about 12, when returning from the residence of R. H. Cooke, city assessor, brother of the young lady he was to marry on Saturday. McCuskar was beaten to insensibility. The loss of the money, which was all the young man's savings and intended for a present to the bride, did not defer the marriage, which took place at the hour appointed.

THE CONSUMPTIVES' HOME.

First Buildings to be Erected in Ontario —Cottage System.

W. H. Jones, of the Inland Sentinel, returned last week from the east. While in Toronto he had a conversation with Mr. W. J. Gage, who is energetically carrying through the scheme he inaugurated to build a home for consumptives somewhere in the Dominion. Mr. Gage has himself offered a sum large enough to perform something practical, but in addition is interesting gentlemen of means and philanthropic disposition in the proposal, and in this respect has been quite successful, several having promised liberal donations, among them Mr. H. A. Massey. The promoters have selected Messrs. Massey, Gage and Hugh Ryan, and Dr. Powell and Dr. Graham to select a site, and very soon their work will be completed. Mr. Gage has himself privately collected statistics and other information about such sanitariums for consumptives, in several cases visiting them himself, and he had found that the cottage system had given more satisfactory results than any other mode of treatment. His proposition is to have that system adopted in Canada.

Speaking as to where the probable site would be, Mr. Gage inclined to the belief that the first building would be erected somewhere in Muskoka. Some of the most important offers of assistance had been made conditional upon the site being chosen in Ontario, while the government of that province offered to make a per diem allowance for the patients from within the bounds of the province treated. The Grand Trunk railway have made liberal offers of reduction in rates, and owing to the proximity to the homes of the majority of the patients, he thought that Muskoka would be given the preference, at least for the beginning. The high cost of freight and passenger rates would be a serious objection to choosing the Northwest or British Columbia, even with the liberal offers of the Canadian Pacific railway. He had no doubt of the success of the sanitarium in relieving much suffering and its consequent success, and he saw ground to expect that after the first one had been tried, at some point east—say Muskoka—another might be tried at some other point, likely British Columbia. The committee was open to receive proposals of assistance from the province or from corporations. These would all be duly considered, and what action was thought best, under the circumstances, taken.

Mr. Gage had expected to see construction begin before this time and one, at least, of the buildings finished before the end of the year, but that much would not be accomplished. An architect, however, had already prepared a draft of plans irrespective of site, and as soon as that question is decided work will be commenced, and probably a second one started before the end of 1896. It thus appears that the offer made by any city in respect of grounds or other assistance will have its weight in deciding the committee which site to select, although where the financial considerations are about equal the most favorably situated as to climate and probable cheapness of maintenance will be chosen.

Mr. Gage has prepared and printed a circular pointing out very strongly the necessity of such an institution, what probably can be accomplished, and some reasons why public and private beneficence should assist.

Amities Win From Vancouver in the League Game on Saturday Afternoon.

The Britannia and Ailsa Racing at the Queenstown Regatta To-Day.

Saturday's league baseball game between Vancouver and the Amities was as fine as exhibition of ball as anyone could desire. It was an ideal spectators' game, the play being clean and sharp, and every inning being marked by the kind of work that a crowd likes. Donovan was in splendid form, pitching very carefully and keeping his head at critical stages. Holmes, the Vancouver short-stop, made some brilliant stops and catches, and Balkivill, the centre-fielder, took in a drive from Smith's bat after a long run. The Vancouver infield showed up well in team work, and the entire nine gave evidences that they will have to be reckoned with in future games. Craig caught splendidly, throwing out two men at second, and supporting Donovan in good style. Craig also did the heavy hitting for the home nine, contributing three out of the five made, one being a long hit to right field for four bases.

Franklin pitched his fourth game in a way that will not readily be forgotten. He had perfect control, and was cool and steady as a veteran leaguer. His sharp, fast, out-drop shoot fooled the Vancouverites very much and they hit constantly. Franklin led the team in batting and fielded his position perfectly. He also made a very clever steal from second to third. Huxtable did the receiving in the excellent style that was shown in the spring games. The Amity in-field could not have played better. They handled everything that came their way, Scott's and Jackson's throwing being much admired by the audience, and evoking continual rounds of applause.

Scott had lots to do, and did it well. Jackson's one-handed catch of a foul was of the phenomenal order. The ball had been driven high in the air and was apparently beyond reach, as it seemed to be dropping directly over the grand stand. Jackson, however, was sprinting at a break-neck pace. There were shouts from the grand stand of "you can't get it." Jackson kept on though and just as he reached the fence he made a desperate clutch at the ball, and to every one's wonderment succeeded in holding it. It took the people a few minutes to realize what had been done, and then they cheered long and lustily. Duck's catching in left field was also a feature. The Amities did not hit Donovan safely, though they found the ball every time—Donovan, too, kept the hits well scattered. Partridge played well at first. The Amities say that they were well treated by the Vancouver audience. The Vancouver team is also to be commended for the resolute way in which they suppressed all coaching. The absence of coaching and the quiet, gentlemanly way in which the game was played will do much to revive interest in baseball. The score follows:

GAME PROTESTED.

The game played on Saturday between the Clippers and Fernwoods has been protested, it being claimed that the pitcher's box was not the regulation distance from the plate.

LAWN TENNIS.

Saturday's Post-Intelligencer has the following on the match between Foulkes and Pelly in the Olympic tennis tournament:

The great match of the day, of course, was the one between Pelly and Foulkes, which Pelly won by 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. In the first two sets, while the men were fresh, it was the best tennis ever seen in Seattle. Both men had great speed and showed judgment in going to the net and taking advantage of chances. Foulkes' placing of the balls with his backhand stroke was wonderful. Time and again he put his ball on the line at the back of the court, while Pelly's service and overhand drives were terrific. The most striking feature of his play, however, was his lobbing, which was high and remarkably accurate, generally coming just inside the back line, and which won the match for him. Both players deserve all the praise that was given them. Pelly made a most plucky fight, for he was tired in the fourth set, and Foulkes at one time had only a point to make to win this set, and so have a good chance in the fifth set, as he was comparatively fresh. The fatal point was lost when the ball struck on some loose earth and failed to bound, the score being 5-4 and 30-40 in Foulkes' favor. Foulkes had been laid up for over a month with a sprained ankle, and he was also troubled with a tennis elbow, so that nothing but his sportsmanship brought him down for the tournament. He took his defeat with the best of grace, acting as though it was the sort of thing he was particularly fond of. The game was a model in point of form, unless it was that cross court play was too frequent, and was tremendously exciting. The crowd, which was the largest yet seen on the courts, went wild over some of the volleys, wherein the players came close to the net and the ball was driven back the fourth faster than the eye could follow it eight, ten or a dozen times, every time a return seeming absolutely impossible.

CRICKET.

The battalion team was badly beaten on Saturday by the Albions. The soldiers went to bat first and scored but six runs, while the Albions made an even hundred. In the second innings the battalion team made but 54, to which R. C. Trimen contributed 15.

YACHTING.

QUEENSTOWN REGATTA.

Queenstown, July 29.—The Britannia and Ailsa started at 10:45 this morning in the regatta of the Royal Munster Yacht Club for a cup presented by Mr. George Gould. A moderate northerly breeze was blowing at the start. The course is 50 miles long. Both yachts carried club topsails and the Britannia had a slight lead at the beginning of the race. In the race for the smaller yachts Mr. Howard Gould's Niagara sailed the course for half the prize money.

The Britannia won. Ailsa did not finish.

THE ANNUAL CRUISE.

Glencove, R. I., July 29.—The early morning gave little promise of an auspicious start of the New York yacht club on its annual cruise. Scarcely a breath of a breeze rippled the water in the cove, and the absence of that element somewhat dampened the enthusiasm of the younger yachtsmen. In all other respects the weather was nearly perfect. At a meeting of the captains in the Sylvia, which began at 10:30 and occupied an hour, it was decided that the preparatory signal should be fired at 12:30 p.m. There seemed to be no doubt among the captains that the course to Eaton's Point, off Huntington, could be made to-day, and that a postponement was not considered.

THE OAR.

THE CANADIAN DEFEATED.

London, July 29.—In the final heat of the race for the senior sculls at the regatta at Molesly-on-Thames on Saturday, H. T. Blackstaff of the Vesta Rowing Club defeated E. A. Thompson of the Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto by two feet after an exciting and splendid race. At the start Thompson caught the water first and secured a slight lead over his adversary. He maintained the advantage until entering the last furlong, when bad steering on the Canadian's part enabled Blackstaff to pull even and eventually pass to the front. The finish at Molesley was a severe one, and but for Thompson's erratic steering his chances of winning were excellent. The distance of 160 feet which measured Thompson's defeat is exactly the same by which the Argonauts lost the senior fours at Henley.

IDAHO INDIANS.

No Conflict Has Occurred and Matters are Quiet.

Market Lake, Idaho, July 29.—It is evident from the present Indian situation that there is some danger of a clash of authority and that the present field operations will be followed by a lively battle in the courts. Governor Richards, of Wyoming, insists that the Indians were taught that when in Wyoming they must obey the state laws.

Dr. Winburn, of Reedburg, has just come from that place with information that James Simmonds and Fred Cunningham, two scouts, arrived at Reedburg last evening straight from Jackson's Hole. They report that no conflict has taken place between the whites and Indians so far and that matters are quiet. Indians to the number of 500 are in Hoback Basin, about 50 miles from Maryvale, where the settlers are fortified and prepared should an attack be made.

Washington, July 29.—Further denials of the reports of massacres at Jackson's Hole reached the Indian bureau to-day in a dispatch from Agent Tetter.

AN ENTERPRISING FIRM:

Something About the Pushing Firm of Johns Brothers.

Push, pluck and enterprise always win, and, as an illustration of the truth of that statement, one only needs to observe the degree of success which has attended the efforts of two enterprising young men, who have, in a comparatively short time—in spite of the declarations of calamity howlers, and in spite of the cry of "hard times"—built up a business of which they may justly be proud.

Just four years ago a small grocery business was opened in the brick building on the corner of King's Road and Douglas street by Johns Bros.—the two young men in question—which has, as a result of the push, pluck and enterprise aforementioned, grown to such an extent that a short time ago it became evident that larger and more commodious quarters were necessary in order to accommodate their rapidly increasing trade, and a new building, specially constructed to meet the requirements of a general grocery establishment, has been erected by the firm on the site directly opposite the old stand. They have recently occupied their new quarters, which are in every particular "up to date." The entire ground floor of the new building, which is two and a half stories in height, is devoted to the accommodation of their large and well selected stock of groceries, while a gallery above provides ample space for the display of a well selected stock of tinware, crockery, etc. An addition at the rear is used to store flour and feed, in which Johns Bros. do a considerable business. The upper flat is intended for a public hall, in which meetings, and, in fact, entertainments of all kinds, may be held, and it will, no doubt, be found admirably suited for those purposes.

The northern end of the city is, perhaps, more largely populated than any other portion of Victoria, and the success of Johns Bros. in their new venture is assured, as reliability, uniform courtesy and strict attention to business—qualifications to which this firm owes much of its success—are bound to be appreciated.

Alberni-Cowichan Election.

The petition of George Albert Huff, in the Cowichan-Alberni election case, came on for hearing before Mr. Justice Crease this afternoon at 2:30. Mr. Thornton Fell and Mr. E. H. Gregory appeared for the petitioner, and the respondent, Thomas Anthony Wood, was not represented.

Mr. Fell read the petition, reciting the several objections to the election. It recites that several Huff ballots were rejected wrongly as spoiled ballots, and a paper marked with a star for Wood was wrongly received, as it had on it a mark whereby it could be identified. Further, that no poll was taken at Magneson's store, Clayoquot, one of the polling places. Fifteen voters reside there and were deprived of any chance of voting. That sufficient ballot papers were not provided at the court house, Alberni, and as a consequence several ballot papers were written out by the deputy returning officer at that place. That the election proclamation was not published and no notice of poll was given at Captain Spring's store, Leclulet, and Magneson's store. That the necessary declaration and oath of secrecy was not made by the deputy returning officer at Captain Spring's store, and that the oath of secrecy was not made by the returning officer, deputy returning officer Milton Edgeon, and Poll Clerk E. M. Skinner. The election writ and usual preliminary papers were put in. Registrar Prevost produced the ballot box. No return was made for Clayoquot. The returns were also produced.

H. O. Welburn, the returning officer, it will be remembered, gave the casting vote, the election being a tie. His certificate giving the election to Thomas Anthony Wood, was commenced by declaring "George" elected. It was afterwards scratched out and "Thomas" substituted. From this it will be seen that George Huff came very near getting the election, not only with the electors, but also with the returning officer. The hearing is still going on.
